CULTURAL CORNER

WHAT IS CULTURAL RESPECT?
Culture is often described as the combination of a body of knowledge, a body of belief and a body of behavior. It involves a number of elements, including personal identification, language, thoughts, communications, actions, customs, beliefs, values, and institutions that are often specific to ethnic, racial, religious, geographic, or social groups. For the provider of health information or health care, these elements influence beliefs and belief systems surrounding health, healing, wellness, illness, disease, and delivery of health services. The concept of cultural respect has a positive effect on patient care delivery by enabling providers to deliver services that are respectful of and responsive to the health beliefs, practices and cultural and linguistic needs of diverse patients.

WHY IS CULTURAL RESPECT IMPORTANT?
Cultural respect is critical to reducing health disparities and improving access to high-quality health care, health care that is respectful of and responsive to the needs of diverse patients. When developed and implemented as a framework, cultural respect enables systems, agencies, and groups of professionals to function effectively to understand the needs of groups accessing health information and health care—or participating in research—in an inclusive partnership where the provider and the user of the information meet on common ground.

HUMAN IMMUNODEFICIENCY VIRUS (HIV)

HIV IS A VIRUS THAT ATTACKS AND KILLS CRUCIAL IMMUNE SYSTEM CELLS

This makes the body less able to fight disease. HIV is the virus that causes AIDS. The virus enters the bloodstream through sexual contact. It also enters through contact with body fluids such as blood or semen or by sharing needles. HIV can also be transmitted from mother to baby during pregnancy. It can be transmitted during the delivery. It can also be transmitted through breast milk.

There is no cure or vaccine for HIV infection. At times there may be no symptoms to warn you. The only way to know if you are HIV positive is to be tested. Voluntary testing is encouraged and available for all pregnant women. We recommend you Talk with your health care provider about testing as soon as you think you are pregnant or plan to become pregnant.

If your HIV test is positive, counseling is available to help you decide the best treatment to keep you and your baby as healthy as possible. Anti-HIV medications can help you stay healthy. They can also lower the chance of passing the virus to others including your baby. Your health care provider will also discuss other ways to help reduce the risk of passing the virus to your baby.

Babies born to HIV positive mothers are tested several times. This is done to look for the virus in the baby’s blood. The baby may be given anti-HIV medication after birth. This is done to help reduce the chance of becoming HIV positive.

What can you do to help prevent HIV Infection in you or your baby?

Ask any sexual partners to be tested BEFORE you have sex. Use latex condoms when having sex. Never share drug needles – free needles may be available where you live. Don’t use illegal drugs – it may affect your ability to remember to be safe. See an OB/GYN as soon as you know you are pregnant whether you test HIV positive or not. Don’t breastfeed if you are HIV Positive.

To find an HIV testing site near you, please visit the Center for Disease Control (CDC) webpage, https://www.cdc.gov/hiv/default.html and use the “Get Tested” site locator tool. You can also ask questions by calling the CDC Hotline at (800) CDC-INFO.

If you need help finding a doctor or would like to speak with one of our Maternal & Child Health case managers, please call our Customer Care Center at (833) 318-4146. TTY users call 711.

THERE’S A GROWING TYPE 2 DIABETES PROBLEM IN OUR YOUNG PEOPLE. BUT PARENTS CAN HELP TURN THE TIDE WITH HEALTHY CHANGES THAT ARE GOOD FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY.

Until recently, young children and teens almost never got type 2 diabetes, which is why it used to be called adult-onset diabetes. Now, about one-third of American youth are overweight, a problem closely related to the increase in kids with type 2 diabetes, some as young as 10 years old.

Weight Matters

People who are overweight—especially if they have excess belly fat—are more likely to have insulin resistance, kids included. Insulin resistance is a major risk factor for type 2 diabetes.

Activity Matters

Being physically active lowers the risk for type 2 diabetes because it helps the body use insulin better, decreasing insulin resistance.

Age Matters

Kids who get type 2 diabetes are usually diagnosed in their early teens. One reason is that hormones present during puberty make it harder for the body use insulin, especially for girls, who are more likely than boys to develop type 2 diabetes.

Take Charge, Family Style

Parents can do a lot to help their kids prevent type 2 diabetes. Set a new normal as a family—healthy changes become habits more easily when everyone does them together.

More Risk Factors

These factors also increase kids’ risk for type 2 diabetes:

- Having a family member with type 2 diabetes
- Being born to a mom with gestational diabetes (diabetes while pregnant)
- Being African American, Hispanic/Latino, Native American/Alaska Native, Asian American, or Pacific Islander
- Having one or more conditions related to insulin resistance
- If your child is overweight and has any two of the risk factors listed above, talk to your doctor about getting his or her blood sugar tested. Testing typically begins at 10 years old or when puberty starts, whichever is first, and is repeated every 3 years.
